

U. S. SERVICE INFORMATION TO END JUNE 30

Wonderful Results Made Public—Task Will Be Assumed by Local Committee in Each Section of County.

The service information bureau of the war department will be discontinued June 30. This is the governmental agency created March, 1915, to coordinate the homecoming army and navy veterans, to assist them in civil life upon demobilization. Originally organized by Col. Arthur Woods of New York, as the office assistant to the secretary of war, it was later transferred to the War Department. It was the first of its kind in the world. The bureau was to give service men assistance in obtaining employment. The whole country was covered, and a network of offices was continuously linking up various agencies interested in employment, work, and lending aid to the returning soldier. As the demand increased, the service and information branch turned its attention more to other problems of veterans, particularly the disabled. To date 1,427,862 men have registered for employment at the governmental and welfare agencies all over the United States. Of these 1,000,000 have been placed at work. In the past 12 months 47,815 men have asked for other assistance from the representatives of the service and information branch throughout the country. These cases have covered every need of the ex-soldier: vocational training or hospital treatment; compensation, insurance, unpaid pay, back pay, travel pay, housing, Liberty bonds, etc. Throughout the country there have been established best committees which will now take up this work, and before Gen. Haan's men leave the service there will be such a committee in each congressional district. Membership in these groups include representatives from the American Legion, Red Cross, all veterans' bodies, and officers from the war risk insurance, vocational training board, and United States health service, as well as other individuals interested in the ex-soldier. In organizing these committees the welfare agencies everywhere have been brought into direct contact with representatives of the government bureau administering soldier relief, and since the welfare agencies have been working with the former soldiers, the latter are thus connected up with the government representatives.

AIR THRILLS GALORE FOR PARK'S OPENING

With the opening of the Aerial Amusement park, at the end of the Thomas street car line, next Sunday, Memphis people will be provided with a real outdoor playground. There will be thrillers galore in the air and on the ground, plenty of music, a delightful dancing pavilion, an old-fashioned barbeque and other attractions. Arrangements are now being made for a series of fireworks displays and for aerial exhibitions in a plane studded with electric lights. Contracts are being sought with bands and orchestras and with companies furnishing big spectacles.

The program for the opening day, Sunday, is most meticulous. One of the big thrillers will be "Fearless" Tinsley, daring aviator and the only man whose feats look like those never attempted to duplicate. Sunday Tinsley will spiral upward in an airplane until an altitude of over 6000 feet is reached, when the plane will apparently burst into flame. Out of the smoke and flame Tinsley will come hurtling down. There will be a sign of relief as his parachute opens, but this will last but a few moments as he will come down with his first parachute and continue his drop in a second. The plane which will carry the daredevil to the clouds will then make a dive to earth wrapped in flame and smoke, will be piloted by Joe Marriott.

The next big thriller will be the five and five-eighths mile race between a high-powered auto driven by Joe MacFarland and a Curtiss racing plane, piloted by Capt. Freddie Cann. The cut and chase will whirl around the big track five times for a prize of $100.

The next air thriller will be staged by Loop King Murphy, now on an exhibition tour in Alabama. Murphy's Sunday exhibition will consist of wing walking and aerial gymnastics, performed on the wings, tail and landing gear of the plane while it is dipping and diving and plunging through space over the landing field in the center of the park.

Other features will be a band concert, music by a jazz orchestra, including five members of the original Handy's band, instrumental selections and singing, and, starting at 8:30, Otto Schneider, solo of the orpheum vaudeville circuit.
